18-hole Adventure Golf course adapted for competition

The Adventure Golf course at Sundbyberg Golf Club is only 20 minutes from central Stockholm. With 18 holes and a kiosk, the course is a much-enjoyed feature within its green environment.

Nice atmosphere and clearly worth several visits per year.

- Review on Facebook

The unique facility is located in a leafy setting with a stream meandering its way through the tree-lined course. This is the result of a design collaboration between City Golf Europe and the former world miniature golf champion - Carl-Johan Ryner.

The holes comprise various obstacles, like tunnels, narrow passages, rocks, different levels, jumps and more. This is a course with great variety, without being too difficult or easy for either beginners or seasoned players.

"Terrific course with lots of challenges and pleasant atmosphere. We will play it several times a week in the future", one visitor wrote in Facebook.

Besides being a fun place to visit for everyone, the course is also adapted for match play according to MOS (Minigolf Open Standard) specifications. It is therefore suitable for hosting various national and international competitions.

GOLF EUROPE

What happened?

A statement from the customer

One year after the opening of Sundbyberg Adventure Golf, we talk to the club and find out that they are very pleased with their Adventure Golf and the cooperation with City Golf Europe.

"From the time of the quote there was an open and positive attitude that was reinforced when work began. Both management and other employees acted like that throughout the project. Our trust has grown through the project. Situations that demanded fast decisions have been met with constructive proposals." Says Hans Tapper at Sundbyberg's Mini Golf Club.

Quadrupled the number of visitors

It is hard to get the kids home again. It is simply to much fun!

All attention around the club from visitors, the municipality and the media has contributed to the increasing number of customers for the club.

"Compared with the time before the Adventure Golf course, we have j quadrupled the amount of visitors, both as players and customers in the kiosk.", Says Hans Tapper.

We also asked Hans if they would recommend Adventure Golf to similar businesses as their own. We get the answers that they have already done that. "We believe that the Adventure Golf raises a new interest in mini golf. It can have very positive effects for the sport's recruitment of new active young and older players."

An oasis

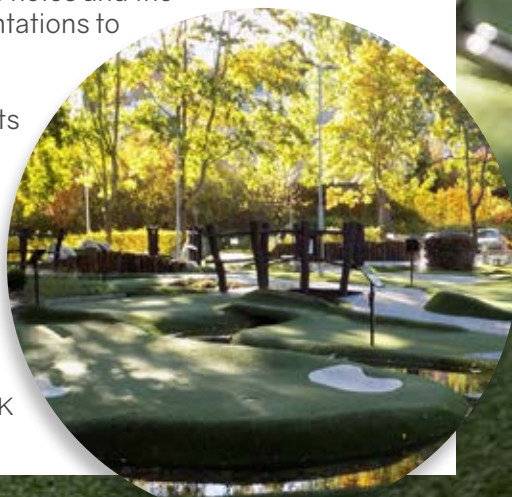

The facility is considered an oasis with a lot of greenery.

"Our facility was made with a close cooperation with our members, where one of our most knowledgeable players (former world champion of bangolf, Carl-Johan Ryner) has participated in designing the holes. The quality of the holes and the surrounding areas is very high. We have added extra plantations to further enhance the experience."

From the visitors Tapper has received a lot of compliments of the new facility. Both children and adults, new and old members, have "complained" that they did not want to leave.

"It's simply fun to play!" Says Tapper.
